

Girl Swimmer Killed In Attack By Alligator

SHARON ELAINE HOLMES
Killed By Alligator

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — "I grabbed her hair, but it kept pulling me down too," said the father of a 16-year-old girl who died after being mauled by an alligator as she was swimming.

A state wildlife official said that, if an autopsy confirms that the alligator killed the girl, it would be the first documented case in Florida.

Bert Russell Holmes said he and his daughter, Sharon Elaine, were swimming in a lake at Oscar Sherer State Park south of Sarasota on Florida's lower Gulf Coast during a family outing Thursday.

He said his daughter was in the middle of the five-acre lake and he was standing in shallow water when she suddenly yelled for help.

"She screamed 'Daddy' like something had got a hold of her," said Holmes. "I turned around and looked, but Sharon wasn't even in sight."

"Then I saw her hand come up for just a moment," Holmes said. He said he swam to where he had seen the hand flash on the surface and after some searching managed to grab her hip-length blond hair but couldn't pull her to the surface.

"I dove again and again," said Holmes.

Several hours later, after divers had searched the lake, the mauled body of Miss Holmes was found on the lake's bank. It was guarded by a 10-foot alligator which crawled into the water as officers approached.

"We killed the alligator Friday morning and found a hand and an elbow in its stomach," Deputy Eddie Palmer said. The Sarasota County medical examiner said an autopsy report would be released Monday.

Colonel Brantley Goodson of the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission said that, although there have been scattered reports over the years of alligators attacking humans, there has never been a recorded case of one killing a person.

Conquest Of Cancer Will Cost Billions

WASHINGTON (AP) — A blueprint for the conquest of cancer — tailored after the "systems analysis" approach that landed men on the moon — projects an escalating battle that will cost more than $1 billion a year by 1978.

The cost projections are contained in the first two volumes of the long awaited national cancer program released by the White House Friday. The plan outlines a broad attack on America's No. 2 killer that ranges from basic research on why the biological cell goes awry and becomes cancerous to how to aid surviving cancer victims disabled by the disease or its treatment.

Cautioning that the projected costs are "planning estimates rather than funding requirements," the plan envisages total National Cancer Institute support of $800 million by fiscal 1978 and other federal, state, local and volunteer research costs of $400 million.

The cancer program already dominates federal health research expenditures, a fact criticized by some scientists who worry that other killer diseases may be neglected. If the projected figures prove accurate, the scientists say, cancer expenditures probably will take an even larger slice of future biomedical research budgets.

The National Cancer Institute's fiscal 1974 budget is $500 million, with another $300 million expected to be spent by other federal agencies, state and local governments and volunteer organizations.

The two volumes released Friday were termed the strategic portion of the cancer conquest plan. The operational volume detailing how the goals are to be accomplished, is expected to be ready about mid-1974.

The strategy calls for tackling the feared disease on seven fronts. They were listed as:

—Reducing the ability of outside agents such as chemicals, radiation and other environmental substances, called car-

'PEASANT FOOD': Emil Tosi shows source of a delicacy he serves at the Stevensville restaurant that bears his name. It's squash blossoms, a treat many area home gardens now offer. Tosi uses zucchini squash blossoms but acorn squash, pumpkins and other plants of that family can also be used. Tosi said the large flowers are picked from the plant in the morning, the inner parts are removed and then the blossom is dusted lightly in flour. The flowers are then dipped in a light egg batter and then quick fried in butter or peanut oil. The result is delicious. Tosi referred to the dish as "Italian peasant food". $2,000 Gold Collar

Self-styled "Country Gentleman" Joe Norman of Detroit is all smiles as his English BULLDOG, King Tuffy, models his new $2,000 gold and diamond dog collar. The collar is a silver-plated mesh band holding ten 14 karat white gold spikes, each topped with a four-karat synthetic diamond. Norman thinks the price was worth it and hopes the "effect" will help him on his way to a movie career. The collar, representing months of work by the Cavanaugh Jewelry Manufacturing Co., has a silver-plated mesh band holding ten spikes made of 14-karat white gold. Each spike is topped with a four-karat synthetic diamond. Twenty white gold pegs hold the collar together. Norman, who prefers to be called Jo Mendi, designed the collar himself. King Tuffy is unimpressed. (AP Wirephoto)

Berrien's Adoption 'Gray Market' Halted

BY BRANDON BROWN
Staff Writer

Berrien county's two probate judges announced Friday they're halting well-intentioned but illegal "gray market" child adoptions by not approving them in court.

Judges Ronald Lange and Zoe S. Burkholz said they've not approved such adoptions on a case-by-case basis since the start of 1973 and are making the stand public now.

"Gray marketing" is the inroduction by an intermediary of an unwed mother to a family that seeks a child. It's illegal, the judges say, because by law adoptions can only be arranged by the adoptive child's parents, a licensed agency or probate court.

Doctors, lawyers, hospitals, mothers and many well-meaning people have broken state adoption law by participating in gray marketing, Judge Burkholz said.

The judges' stand does not affect in-family adoptions, as between a stepfather and a stepchild, or direct placement of an adoptive child with relatives.

The judges addressed their announcement to the Berrien

County Bar Association, Berrien County Medical Association, Berrien county hospitals and interested citizens.

"This court shall not grant any petitions for adoption involving a direct non-licensed agency placement of a child, except for direct placements with relatives," it said.

Violations will be referred to Prosecutor Ronald J. Taylor, it said.

Gray market adoptions are prompted by a prior lack of an adoption framework and lack of babies to meet the demand, Judge Lange said.

But gray marketing is expensive to the new parents — they're encouraged to pay $2,000

READY FOR FRYING: Employees of Tosi's Restaurant at Stevensville prepare zucchini squash blossoms for frying. The women, Miss Bekki Semper (left) and Miss Sherie Jeffery remove the inner parts of the flower plus the calyx leaves before the delicacy is placed in batter and fried in peanut oil. For home use, Tosi advised frying the flowers in clarified butter. Tosi raises the squashes in a garden directly behind his restaurant. He said the reason most people never heard of the delicacy is that the blossoms are extremely tender and must be harvested immediately before they are served. (Staff Photo)

Bert Lindenfeld, Managing EditorSpiro Agnew's Response
Speaks Well For Him

They say that graft's as common in Maryland government as oysters in Chesapeake Bay.

So when an ex-governor is accused of taking kickbacks, it doesn't stretch credulity — even if the ex-governor is now the Vice President of the United States, Spiro T. Agnew.

Only time, the grand jury and the courts can tell whether the charges are "damned lies," as Agnew says. But in the meantime, the Vice President's response sets a good example of forthrightness during a period when there has been much evasion in high places.

Agnew's public comments and his agreement to make his personal financial records available to federal prosecutors speak well for him.

The probe involving Agnew began last December as an investigation of Baltimore County officials and engineering firms. Agnew was notified two weeks ago he was under investigation for possible violations of bribery, extortion, conspiracy and tax laws.

Justice department lawyers asked Agnew for his personal financial records. The records were withheld at first on grounds that constitutional questions might be involved, and must be studied. Since then, Agnew and his counsel have wisely decided that the concept of executive privilege is in no way involved in furnishing personal records, as distinguished from official vice presidential records.

They chose the sensible path of stipulating that their action does not acknowledge any right to inquire into the vice president's activities in office. These "difficult constitutional questions," Agnew said, need not be resolved now.

At least, he sounds like a man who has nothing to fear.

You've Come A Long Way,
Baby--In Crime Statistics

Watch for it on the marquee of your neighborhood movie theater — Now Playing: "The Godmother." We have already been treated to "Bonnie and Clyde" and "Coffy." Both of those films implied that the woman criminal was an exotic exception to the rule. But that rule, like so many others concerning woman's place in society, no longer applies. Women are engaging in criminal activity more than ever before — and they are good at it.

In Washington, D.C., for example, elderly women play a key role in the local number racket. D.C. police last year raided the apartment of an 82-year-old woman and found evidence she had been taking numbers bets totaling between $80 and $200 a day. But she was neither charged nor prosecuted. "She was just a nice-looking old lady," a government prosecutor said. "If you saw her standing at the curb you would...help her cross the street."

Unfortunately, though, your typical female criminal is not a charming little old lady like Josephine Hull in "Arsenic and Old Lace." She is more likely to belong to an all-girl teenage gang. Or to a stable of prostitutes like those who mugged former West German defense minister Franz Joseph Strauss in New York and splashed acid on the neck of cartoonist Charles Adams.

Crime by women under age 18, as reflected in FBI arrest statistics, is rising at an alarming rate. From 1960 through 1972, the number of men under age 18 arrested for major offenses increased by 81.6 per cent. In the same period, the number of major-offense arrests of women in that age group rose by 306.1 per cent. And so it went for lesser offenses. In 1960, only 230 American women under the age 18 were arrested for narcotics law violations. By 1972 the number had increased to 10,702 — a rise of 4,553 per cent.

James A. Brussel, a former assistant commissioner of mental hygiene for the state of New York, finds nothing surprising about the upsurge in female criminality. "It's nonsense to think that there is something basically or innately non-violent about women," he says. "No biological factors, no hormones are involved. Until recently, the only thing that held women back was the cultural influence. Now there is a sharing of everything — including crime."

The sharing extends to combating crime. A few years ago, women members of the nation's local police forces were confined largely to clerical duties. Then, tentatively, a handful were assigned to the traffic division. But now a number of police departments in major cities are assigning women to foot patrols. In almost every instance, their male supervisors have been surprised and gratified by the results.

Even diehard male-chauvinist policemen concede that policewomen are highly effective in dealing with domestic squabbles. Moreover, male suspects apprehended on the street often seem abashed and apologetic when the arresting officer is a woman.

It is too early, however, to jump to long-range conclusions. As time passes, prosecutors and judges may treat the little-old-lady numbers writer as harshly as her male counterpart. The semi-gallantry accorded policewomen seems sure to fade or disappear.

During the ice age, the greatest advance of ice sheets covered one-tenth of the earth's surface, or about 19.6 million square miles. Ice sheets now cover about 6 million square miles.

The principle of the rotary engine, now being used in some automobiles, was patented in 1769 by James Watt, the inventor of the steam engine.

EDITOR'S MAILBAG

URGES PROPERTY
OWNERS TO VOTE

Editor,
This is an open letter to Coloma school district property owners.

In approximately three weeks, (September 10th), you will be asked to reiterate your wishes at another $637.35 cost to you, for the election, to put yourself in a total debt of $6,717,192.00 less interest, because people you elected to serve you would not respect your wishes for the fourth time.

For a district with very little industrial help, the figure of $6,717,192.00 is astronomical. This, I imagine, will be vigorously denied, but here are the facts as published by the school administration.

Per the 1971-72 financial report: 1964 high school, $1,205,000. . . 1971 jr. high school, $2,400,000 less this year's debt retirement of $327,808 (6 1/2 mills x $50,432,082, the school districts state equalized value), for a total debt balance of $3,287,192 at present.

You will be voting on a physical education facility, broken down in four parts (for your choice) but still has a total value of $2,500,000.00. You also will vote on a $950,000.00 school building at the Eaman district. This building may be a necessity, but in all conversations and discussions I have witnessed, this district was forced on the Coloma district by the state and is treated like a poor relative. If we okay the school bond and the administration is successful in shedding the district, will we still be responsible for the debt?

One final caution. As our school millage, at present, is 29.876 mills and less than a 1/4 mill increase will put us over 30 mills and put us in jeopardy, in the future, of losing any of the new school aid program just passed by the legislature.

Once again, I not only ask concerned property owners, but plead with them to vote their preference. Drop your apathy and VOTE. Remember we won by only 121 votes in June.

The only thing that will be missing will be your vote on September 10th.

Coloma, Mich.REFLECTIONS ON WATERGATE HEARINGS

Editor,
To: The members of the senate select committee on presidential campaign activities.

Gentlemen:

I have availed myself of the opportunity to see and hear virtually every minute of the televised Watergate Hearings which were recessed sine dies last Wednesday.

Like many of my friends, I was fascinated but increasingly disgusted with the conduct of the hearings and particularly with the results achieved to date.

However reluctantly, we have in retrospect arrived at some conclusions which we feel should be presented to you for your consideration:

1. After these many, many weeks of hearings no significant evidence of criminal or glaringly unethical conduct was unearthed which was not already known or suspected by the appropriate federal law enforcement agencies.

2. Under the avowed purpose of "getting to the truth" and "inquiring into possible need for new legislation" you were both participants — and by virtue of being selected for this committee by your fellow Senators — victims of what may go down in the history of our beloved country, as a thinly veiled attempt at mass public character assassination.

3. If Patrick Gray admitted broken-heartedly that his serious error in judgment is a burden he will carry with him for the rest of his life, the burden some of you will have to bear and for which the people hold you responsible is that you have deprived us, needlessly, of the services of a number of outstanding and devoted public servants and have contributed significantly to an apparent slow-down in the processes of government and to a largely baseless distrust in government officials.

4. The frequently viciously vindictive and increasingly partisan attacks on individual witnesses, the nauseatingly repetitive and too often considerably less than intelligent questioning of witnesses, the quoting from the Bible by the Chairman, frequently designed, to many viewers, as an opportunity to elicit welcome snickering from an obviously partisan audience.

5. The support which some of you provided to efforts of fore-

GOP Wide Open

For Youth In '76

WASHINGTON (NEA) — One experienced Republican is arguing that another factor — a perhaps overdue "generational switch" — could be added onto Watergate to push the GOP toward new faces in its 1976 presidential quest.

It happened for the Democrats in 1960 with the nomination of the late John F. Kennedy. His assassination produced the accidental flashback to Lyndon Johnson and then Hubert Humphrey.

But the Democratic party got back on the young side with Sen. George McGovern, and probably will stay there the next time or two.

Says my Republican source: "If we don't go for somebody younger it may look as if we're just doing reruns."

Take this kind of talk seriously, and you're eliminating a fair batch of prospects, including Vice President Agnew and Govs. Ronald Reagan of California and Nelson Rockefeller of New York, who seeks a fifth term next year.

Rocky is the most openly ambitious of the lot, and totally clean of Watergate. But if age (68 in 1976) doesn't do him in, then the fact he's been suited up or running much of the time since 1960 may do it. His widely regarded executive abilities might not have much to do with popular attitudes.

Reagan has tried only once, belatedly in 1968, but he's been a national political figure for nine years and today strikes some observers as a little grumpy for an old movie smoothie who used to dazzle

Republican audiences with his witty sallies.

Of course he too is untouched by Watergate, but he's made a generalized defense of the Nixon administration which could hurt if a flock of new convictions for perjury and obstructing justice come floating along.

Already well discussed in Agnew's handicap in just having been out on the track with Mr. Nixon. He's the teammate, ignorant though he may have been of Watergate. And he's been firing from the Nixon trenches for nearly half a decade.

It doesn't help, either, that he's shown now to be under new inquiry for possible bribery and other law violations going back to his days as Maryland's governor. Nothing may come of it, but we're in a climate where mere inquiry and informal charge may be read by voters as "taint."

If my source's theme is good, that about wipes the slate clean of oldies. John Connally was out before he was in.

I nevertheless have to agree with critics who say polls showing Sens. Charles Percy and Howard Baker edging Ted Kennedy right now don't mean a thing.

Baker is riding a crest of attention from the Ervin Watergate hearings.

Percy is about as popular with influential Republicans as a defeated candidate for sheriff. And he is largely unknown. In a meaningless early poll he would have one advantage. His name is not Agnew, Reagan or Rockefeller. He sounds different and he does happen to be young.

Record $88,028 Paid For Youth Fair Meat

Buchanan Boy Exhibits Grand Champion Charolais Market Steer

BY ALAN AREND
Staff Writer

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Yes, the price of meat has gone up, but nobody seemed to care here yesterday during spirited bidding at the annual Berrien County Youth Fair's livestock auction.

Area citizens shelled out $88,028 for 243 of the county's finest steers, hogs and lambs, shattering the record of $52,620 set last year, when 232 animals were sold. One buyer even came from as far away as Hammond, Ind., for the auction.

The grand champion market steer, a 1,135 pound Charolais, was purchased by C & S Machine Co., of Buchanan, for $2.20 a pound. It brought its owner Mark Swartz of Buchanan a cool $2,497. Last year's price was $1.30 a pound.

By coincidence, Mark's father, Ralph, exhibited the grand champion market steer at the 1947 Berrien County Youth Fair, the first year the Fair held an auction. His father chuckled when asked what he received for his steer back in '47 and replied, "I think it was something like 48 cents a pound."

The grand champion market hog, exhibited by cute, little five-year-old Pam Reed of Niles, was purchased by Glen Wade Shows of Mason, owner of the midway rides at the Fair, for $3 a pound, bringing Pam $705 for her 235 pound champion.

The grand champion market lamb, was bought by Bob Howe, of Howe Ford-Mercury auto sales, Dowagiac, for $3 a pound, bringing $300 to Deann Mortimore of Coloma. Her Suffolk lamb weighed an even 100 pounds.

Another huge turnout of 23,786 persons Friday brought total attendance for this year's Fair to 87,237, over 8,000 ahead of last year's record setting pace when 100,870 persons attended the five-day event.

Today is the final day of the Fair and officials are hoping to break last year's attendance mark, which should easily fall, providing the weatherman cooperates.

Garden tractor, modified and farm tractor pulling contests started this morning at 8:30. A draft horse hitching show and exhibition is slated for 1:30 p.m. and the pony pulling contest will be held at 2:30 p.m.

Tonight singing star, Bobby Goldsboro, will perform two shows at the main grandstand at 7 and 9 p.m. Last night Myron Floren and Guy and Ralna of the Lawrence Welk show received two standing ovations from the crowd that overflowed the main grandstand. Their performances will long be remembered by fairgoers.

The Fair's annual dog show also ended yesterday with the naming of the grand and reserve champs of the show. An American Fox Hound shown by Scott Walters, 13, of Stevensville, won the title and a Doberman shown by Tina Rosebrook, 15, of Niles came in second.

At yesterday's auction, overall, $70,551 was paid for 80 steers, nearly double that of last year; $9,764 for 62 hogs; and $7,714 for 101 lambs. Average price paid per pound for the animals, excluding the grand and reserve champion animals was 87 cents for steers, 69 cents for hogs, and 61 cents for lambs. Last year the average price was 46 cents for steers, 41 cents for hogs and 65 cents for lambs.

The reserve champion steer was purchased by Schmidt's Packing Co., of Niles for $1.50 a pound, or $1,560 for the 1,040 pound Hereford exhibited by Sharon Paturalski of Niles.

The reserve champion hog was purchased by the Cass County Fair Board of Directors, for $1 a pound, bringing $190 to Michael Jackson of Eau Claire.

The reserve champion lamb was bought by Reznick Packing Co., of South Haven for $1 a pound, bringing $100 to Dan Atherton of Coloma.

Planner's Furniture of Benton Harbor, purchased the grand champion Crossbred steer from Barry Millenberger of Niles, for $1,017, at 83 cents a pound.

Ken Seifert of Three Oaks paid 95 cents a pound for the grand champion Angus steer owned by Linda Seabast of Buchanan. The animal weighed 865 pounds bringing Linda $822.

Whirlpool Corp., of St. Joseph, bought the grand champion Shorthorn steer for 90 cents a pound from Tom Sossoman of Niles. His animal weighed 1,090 pounds, bringing Tom $981.

Purchasing reserve champion steers were: Inter-City Bank of Benton Harbor, $1,095 for the Charolais exhibited by Joan Durm of Niles; Tractor Mart of Niles, $875 for the Angus exhibited by Katie Sossoman of Niles; Roger Construction of Eau Claire, $1,026 for the Hereford exhibited by Rodney Jannert of Eau Claire; Auto Specialties Corp., of St. Joseph, $723 for Shorthorn exhibited by Bruce Foster of Niles; Tractor Land Sales of Eau Claire, $1,109 for the Crossbred exhibited by Rodney Jannert of Eau Claire.

Many other citizens contributed greatly to the huge success of yesterday's auction, by keeping the average price of all the animals sold on an even keel.

The auction ran smooth as silk, thanks to the many friends and workers of the fair who contributed their time and the excellent auctioneering of John Glassman of Eau Claire and Harold Howe of Buchanan. Clare Musgrove, Berrien County's cooperative extension director, served as master of ceremonies.

MILLION DOLLAR SMILE: With pigtales, dimples and a smile that can't be beat, cute little five-year-old Pam Reed of Niles stands with her grand champion market hog and Sherman Schmidt, manager of Wade Shows, who purchased the top hog at yesterday's Fair for $3 a pound on behalf of Wade Shows, which provide the midway rides at the Fair each year. The price brought little Pam $705. (Staff photo)

STEAK SHORTAGE ???: The grand champion market steer at yesterday's annual Berrien County Youth Fair auction was purchased by C & S Machine Co., of Buchanan for $2.20 a pound, bringing its owner Mark Swartz of Buchanan, $2,497. Seen with the Charolais and Mark are Bill

Frame, C & S supervisor, and Joe Saratore, the firm's president. Mark's father, Ralph, exhibited the grand champion market steer at the Fair's first auction in 1947. He said he received 48 cents a pound for that steer. (Staff photo)

Stevensville Woman To Head NAACP Project

A Stevensville woman has been appointed to head a newly created NAACP project, intended to establish consumer protection centers in all 32 Michigan NAACP branches.

Mrs. Alphonso Myers, of 4815 Ridge road, said today that her title will be Consumer Protection Chairperson for the state of Michigan. She has been a member of the Twin Cities Area branch of the NAACP for one year.

The appointment was announced by NAACP State President Carl Breeding at the monthly meeting in Lansing.

She said that 11 volunteer workers will staff each of the 32 centers across the state. Sites have not yet been picked, but Mrs. Myers said they will be located in lower income areas, hopefully in Model Cities projects or churches.

Mrs. Myers said the purpose of the centers will be "to investigate the market on food, furniture, ears, etc." The data will be made available to consumers in the area of the centers.

Also, she said, the centers will be stocked with literature about the workings of credit unions and receiving credit in stores; foods and food buying; money saving dishes; buying clothing; and other subjects. She said the literature will be U.S. Government material. Persons will not have to join the NAACP to receive the service, she said.

Palmer Gets 17th As Streaking Orioles Fly Past Sox

From Associated Press
Jim Palmer, with ninth-inning relief help from Grant Jackson, hurled his ninth consecutive victory, and the streaking Baltimore Orioles defeated the staggering White Sox 3-2.

It was the fifth straight victory for the American League Eastern Division leaders and the seventh loss in the last eight games for the White Sox. The Orioles wasted numerous early opportunities against Stan Bahnsen, 15-14 with a 1-14 lifetime record against Baltimore, but scored on a second-inning sacrifice fly by Bobby Grich and a double by Rich Coggins in the fourth.

Palmer, 17-6, and on the way to his fourth straight 20-victory season, struck out six and walked four before running into trouble in the ninth when the White Sox made it close on Carlos May's run-producing grounder and Tony Muser's RBI single.

Grich's run-producing sacrifice fly in the second followed a double by Brooks Robinson and a bloop single by Earl Williams.

Grich singled and advanced on an error in the fourth before being trapped in a rundown. But Al Bumbry, who reached on the fielder's choice, took second on a passed ball and scored an unearned run on Rich Coggins' double.

Palmer raised his career record to 117-54 for a percentage of .684.

Minnesota 14, Cleveland 2. It wasn't hard to find the happiest man in the Minnesota Twins' clubhouse Friday night.

No, it wasn't Tony Oliva, who hit two homers — including a grand slam — and drove in six runs.

No, it wasn't Bert Blyleven, who pitched a complete game for his 15th victory, giving up seven hits in the Twins' overpowering 14-2 triumph over the Cleveland Indians.

It was shortstop Jerry Terrell, who hit the first home run of his major league career, and added three singles to Minnesota's 18-hit attack.

Red Sox 6, Royals 1
Marty Pattin came out of the Boston bullpen to preserve the victory for Rogelio Moret, 7-0.

Carl Yastrzemski had driven in two runs and sparked a four-run fifth inning rally that put the Red Sox in front.

Rangers 8, Yankees 1
Rookie David Clyde scattered nine hits in stifling the Yankees' struggling offense as the underdog Rangers handed the Yankees their fifth loss in six games. The New Yorkers fell three games behind the pace-setting Orioles.

A's 3, Brewers 2
Ken Holtzman won his 18th game of the season with a six-hitter to help the A's increase their lead in the Western Division to one game. He had a no-hitter until the fifth inning when George Scott hit his 18th home run of the year over the center field fence. Deron Johnson had hit his 17th for A's in the previous inning, scoring what proved to be the game winner.

AARON CATCHES MUSIAL

Cubs Winners Again

CHICAGO (AP) — Billy Williams drove in four runs with a bases-loaded single and his 15th home run and Bob Locker turned in clutch ninth-inning relief pitching, leading Chicago to a 5-1 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Friday that snapped the Cubs' losing streak at 11 games.

Biff Bonham, 5-4, who struck out nine batters and walked four, had a one-hitter going into the ninth inning. But he walked Bill Buckner to open the inning and, one out later, gave up singles to Joe Ferguson and Willie Crawford that loaded the bases.

Locker then came on and Steve Garvey hit his first pitch back to the mound to start a game-ending double play.

Bonham held the National League's West Division leaders hitless until Buckner pulled a one-out line-single to right in the sixth inning.

Dave Lopes, who had been hit by a pitch just before Buckner's single, took third on the clean hit and scored on Willie Davis' sacrifice fly.

The Cubs took a 2-0 lead off Dodger starter Andy Messersmith, 11-8, in the third inning. Paul Popovich' leadoff single, Bonham's sacrifice, Don Kessinger's single and a walk to Jose Cardenal filled the bases, then Williams singled to center.

Rick Monday's single and steal of second followed by Popovich's double gave the Cubs a run in the fourth and they added two more in the fifth on Cardenal's leadoff single and Williams' line-drive homer into the right field seats.

Elsewhere in the National League, Montreal nipped Atlanta 8-7 as Hank Aaron, who has been busy chasing Babe Ruth, discovered that he had caught Stan Musial. Cincinnati nipped New York 2-1 in 10 innings, San Francisco beat Pittsburgh 5-3, Philadelphia whipped Houston 8-3 and San Diego defeated St. Louis 4-2 in 13 innings.

Everybody has been so obsessed with Aaron's pursuit of THE record that his closing in on a less historic mark was lost in the shuffle. Nevertheless, his 30th homer of the year Friday night tied him with Musial and — yes folks — it only left him 11 short of what's his name's record for most something or others in a career.

In that game Aaron belted career homer No. 703 which gave him 1377 extra base hits and tied him with Musial in that department.

"I didn't know anything about the Musial mark until they announced it here," Aaron said.

Bernie Allen's bases-loaded single in the bottom of the ninth capped a three-run rally, lifting the Expos to an 8-7 victory over Aaron and the Braves.

Phils 8, Astros 3

Steve Carlton hurled an eight-hitter, regained the National League strike lead by fanning 11 Astros and even slugged a homer in his behalf as the Phils stunned the Astros 8-3.

The Philadelphia left-hander now has 187 strike outs. He unloaded his homer in the fourth.

Giants 5, Pirates 3

Willie McCovey slugged two homers to help Ron Bryant to his 18th victory of the season in the Giants' 5-3 triumph over the Padres.

Bryant lost both his perfect game and his no-hitter in the seventh when the Pirates scored two runs but Elias Sosa came in for the save.

Reds 2, Mets 1

Pinch hitter Hal King's home run leading off the 10th inning lifted the Reds to a 2-1 victory over the Mets.

New York's George Stone had carried a two-hit shutout into the ninth but two-out singles by Dan Dreissen, Tony Perez and Johnny Bench knotted the game at 1-1.

Padres 4, Cards 2

Nate Colbert's triple in the 13th inning scored Dave Roberts and helped the San Diego Padres to a 4-2 victory over the slumping St. Louis Cardinals.

Ryan Wants Koufax Mark

Robbie Now 4th On All-Time Homer List

ANAHEIM (AP) — Nolan Ryan is on a collision course with destiny and Frank Robinson is another step closer to Cooperstown today.

Ryan, the California Angel flamethrower, added 13 more notches in his already well-studded strikeout belt Friday night as he pitched a five-hitter, helping the Angels bury the Detroit Tigers 10-2.

Ryan, now possesses 288 strikeouts this year, 94 shy of Sandy Koufax' major league record for a single season.

Robinson, meanwhile, passed a memorable milestone when he drilled his 545th career homer to move past Harmon Killebrew and into undisputed possession of fourth place on the all-time list.

The Angels and Tigers face off again tonight with Joe Coleman, 18-10, of Detroit facing California's Bill Singer, 15-10.

Ryan, who freely admits he often thinks about surpassing the Koufax standard and even possibly becoming the first pitcher to fan more than 400 in a season, also has something else on the back of his mind.

"I'm still thinking 20 victories," he said matter-of-factly after evening his record at 14-14.

That was one of Ryan's major disappointments last year when he missed No. 20 on the last day of the season.

"It was a struggle for the last three innings," Ryan said after he beat the Tigers for the fourth straight time this season. "My arm just went dead. In fact, it hasn't felt real good for the last three starts."

Robinson kept the baseball he launched out of Anaheim Stadium against Woody Fryman in the second inning with two mates aboard.

"It means a lot to me," the Angel slugger said. "It means of all the great hitters who've played this game there are only three ahead of me in home runs. It's quite an honor."

The three are Babe Ruth, Hank Aaron and Willie Mays. Robinson also added a double walked once and scored three runs as the Angels made it easy for Ryan. Mike Epstein also contributed heavily to the Angel attack with a homer, double and single in three trips. He drove in two runs.

The Angels scored twice in the first and four more in the second, giving Ryan a big early lead and this, the Angel pitcher said, was helpful.

"It enabled me to spend more time working on setting up the hitters. I threw more breaking pitches than I normally would have in a close game."

Russian Runners Leave U.S. Squad Far Behind

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union, dominating the track and field events, carried nine gold medals into today's events of the World University Games, with the United States team far behind.

The U.S. track and field team, which had to settle for a silver medal on Thursday by Kathy Schmidt, the Long Beach City College javelin thrower, collected only a bronze on Terry Porter's third-place finish in the pole vault Friday.

Although the American men's basketball team has scored two easy victories, the Games so far have been a disappointment for the Americans, and it appears it will take next week's swimming events to restore American pride.

The Soviet team, which picked up four golds Thursday, added five Friday. Nadezhda Tkatchenko won the women's pentathlon, world record holder Faina Melnik won the discus and Yuri Silov took the 100-meter dash — a race in which America's Steve Reddick of Norfolk, Va. College could take only fourth place.

Today, the Americans have a possibility in the 110-meter hurdles where Larry Shipp of Louisiana State University has reached the finals, and in the 800 where Rick Brown of the University of California is entered. Dennis Schultz of Oklahoma University and Darwin Bond of the University of Tennessee are in the 400-meter finals.

The U.S. women's basketball team, which lost its opener to the Russians, came back and beat France 54-43. The U.S. men routed Sweden 120-31.

After two full days of competition, the Soviet Union led with nine gold medals, two silver and two bronze for a total of 13. The U.S. has only one silver and one bronze.

Lions Face Colts; Bears Test Miami 'Luck'

Old NFL Powers Clash On TV

From Associated Press
A clash between the Kansas City Chiefs and Minnesota Vikings, each seeking to regain past glory, headlines today's National Football League exhibition schedule.

The Vikings and Chiefs, opponents in Super Bowl IV in 1970 but non-playoff participants last year, meet at Kansas City's Arrowhead Stadium in a nationally televised contest on NBC (9:05 p.m., EDT).

Other games today find New Orleans at Dallas; Miami entertaining Chicago; Baltimore and Detroit meeting at Memphis, Tenn.; Los Angeles going against Oakland in Berkeley, Calif.; Green Bay hosting Houston at Milwaukee; New England playing at Atlanta, and St. Louis at Denver.

Games Sunday pit cross-state and cross-city rivals against one another. Cleveland and Cincinnati meet at Columbus, Ohio; the New York Jets take on the New York Giants at New Haven, Conn., and San Francisco hosts San Diego.

Friday night a crowd of 80,020 — four under capacity — was on hand as the Bills and Washington played the first game at Buffalo's new stadium — a 37-21 decision for the Redskins after Herb Mul-Key returned the opening kickoff 102 yards for a touchdown.

In Saturday's TV game, Viking head coach Bud Grant is expected to start Bob Berry at quarterback in place of Fran Tarkenton, while Chiefs coach Hank Stram will probably give 38-year-old veteran Len Dawson his first start of the pre-season.

Jack Concannon, who broke his thumb during the 1972 pre-season, will be hoping for better things this year as he opens at quarterback for the Cowboys.

The Miami-Chicago game may provide an answer to the question — "Just how long will the Dolphins' luck continue to hold?" — as the Super Bowl champs put their 3-0 pre-season record and 21-game victory skein on the line. Veteran Bobby Douglass, who led the Bears in rushing last year, will be getting the call against the Dolphins.

Detroit coach Don McCarfery spent 14 years with the Baltimore Colts, but the team his Lions will be meeting bears little resemblance to the club from which he was fired last year. Despite 19 trades by General Manager Joe Thomas, the Colts are still seeking their initial 1973 triumph and have allowed 68 points in just two games.

Bulba Smith, one of the Colts Thomas traded away, is expected to see his first action for his new employers at Oakland.

The Packers, carried to a 10-3 victory over Buffalo last week by their running and defense, will go with Scott Hunter over Jerry Tagge at quarterback. Dan Pastorini is expected to be back of center for the Oilers.

Atlanta has defeated New England twice in pre-season play, but when it counted last year the Patriots came out on top 21-20. The Pats bowed to the Giants 13-7 last week, while the Falcon defense carried Atlanta to a 34-20 victory over Baltimore. Veteran Dick Shiner gets the nod as Norm Van Brocklin continues to look for a quarterback.

Jim Hart and Charley Johnson, rivals for the starting QB job at St. Louis for three years, will be rivals once again as the Cardinals go after their second pre-season victory and the Broncos their first.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — Add plenty of tears to the rain that inundated the Bedford Valley Country Club golf course Friday.

Plenty of fine rounds were washed out but two golfers in particular had most reason to cry over the late afternoon washout of the second round of the 54th annual Michigan Open Golf Championship.

Jimmy Picard of Orchard Lake tied the course record with a blistering 66 to seemingly pull near the lead, while one of the first round leaders — Bill

Stacey of Weidman — fired his second consecutive 69.

But the efforts went down the drain with a downpour which forced suspension of play at 2:15 p.m. Two hours later, after efforts to squeegie and towel off several water-logged greens failed, tournament officials announced the rainout.

Nearly half of the golfers in the field of 185 had finished play. The entire round was rescheduled for today. The low 70 and ties will play in a 36-hole finale Sunday.

Last year the opening-day round was rained out and a 36-hole final also was played Sunday.

"When you wash out a round you have to think about how it's going to affect the players with good rounds," said Roger VanDyke, tournament chairman, who himself fired an even par-72 for a fine 145 total.

"But you can't let that influence you," he continued. "You have to make your decision strictly on the condition of the course and whether play will hurt the course, not on how certain players will be affected."

He said the 14th and 16th greens were flooded and numerous other spots on the course were so wet it would have forced golfers to continually re-drop watery lies.

Golf Isn't 'Funny' For Jim King

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — "The game of golf is funny," Bobby Mitchell said after tying Ken Still for the second-round lead in the $200,000 USI Golf Classic. "A lot of things can happen. But it's very doubtful that a lot of things can happen. But it's very doubtful that the husky, 210-pounder could see the humor in his situation."

King, a tour member with indifferent success since 1968, was disqualified and suspended indefinitely Friday after an altercation with four official Pete Sessa.

A statement released by Jack Tubhill, the head of the touring officials for the Tournament Players Division of the PGA, said King grabbed Sessa by the throat "in a threatening manner."

That version of the incident on the 16th hole at the Pleasant Valley Country Club course was confirmed by Ben Wright, a television commentator who was an eyewitness.

King, however, denied touching the official and said he would seek legal help.

On the course, the quiet, softspoken Mitchell and the talkative Still matched five-under-par 67s and tied for the 36-hole lead with 137 total, seven-under-par on the hilly, 7,212-yard layout.

Lee Trevino, meanwhile, vaulted into contention with another 67 that was highlighted by the first hole-in-one of his spectacular career. He was two strokes off the pace with a 139 total.

Trevino's ace came on the 185-yard first hole. He used a six-iron.

"The ball hit about 15 feet in front of the flag," Trevino said. "But I didn't see it go in."

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR SEN. ADLAI E. STEVENSON III (D-Ill.)

How important was "big money" in last year's political campaign compared with other election years?—F. Dowd, Kalamazoo, Mich.

- The activity of large contributors in the 1972 campaign reached unprecedented proportions. The two Presidential candidates received dozens of contributions in excess of $100,000. Eighteen individuals gave the Nixon campaign $7.5 million—more than the total amount spent by Lyndon Johnson eight years ago. Large contributions on that scale take us a dangerously long step from democracy to plutocracy.

FOR EILEEN FORD, Ford Models, Inc.

Do girls with glasses have a good chance for modeling? Is a girl ever too old to start?—F. Lewis, San Francisco, Calif.

- There are many models who wear glasses and many are turning to contact lenses. Unfortunately, they're always losing them in the studios. We don't interview anyone over 22, but many working models who started in their teens model into their 30's.

FOR VALERIE HARPER,

Rhoda Morganstern of "The Mary Tyler Moore Show"

You used to look much heavier. What happened?—Martha Vance, San Mateo, Calif.

- When I started out on TV I weighed close to 150 pounds, and then during the first year I lost about ten pounds. The second year I lost another 20 pounds. I had to put padding on for the show to look heavier because that's what the scripts called for. But in the new scripts, it's okay for me to be thinner. And that isn't easy, because I love to eat.

FOR ERMA BOMBECK, syndicated columnist

Your column is always hilarious. How do you come up with so many funny things to write about?—Robert Barney, San Antonio, Texas

- As a mother, a wife, a garbage hustler and a Girl Scout cookie captain (ret.), I know that there are only two topics of humor left in this world: New Jersey and pantyhose. I supply only the situations. I count heavily on wonderful people like you to provide the laughter.

FOR JAMES ARNESS of "Gunsmoke"

On your TV show, it appears that you always ride the same color and type of horse. Is it the same horse—year after year?—Henry Waring, Barton, N.Y.

- No switches, Mr. Waring—I always ride the same horse.

FOR LUCILLE BALL

Did you get the idea for "Lucy" from someone you know, or did a writer dream her up?—Louise K. Geiger, Hot Springs, Ark.

- I think "Lucy" was really born on the stage during the days Desi and I were doing vaudeville. I did a crazy red-head bit that made the audience howl. But I didn't actually start to play "Lucy" until September, 1951.

FOR LOU BROCK, St. Louis Cardinals baseball star

Who is the hardest catcher to steal against?—Scott Jackson, Decatur, Ill.

- I'd give my vote to Manny Sanguillen of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

FOR REP. JAMIE L. WHITTEN (D-Miss), chairman of the House Agriculture Appropriations Subcommittee

Who gets the most out of all that money I shell out for food? The farmer or the middleman?—P. L., San Rafael, Calif.

- Out of every ten dollars the consumer spends on farm-grown food, about four dollars goes to the farmer. From the remaining six dollars, $1.38 goes to restaurants, $1.62 goes to food stores, 78 cents goes to the wholesalers, and $2.22 goes to the processors (canning and the packaging factories).

FOR SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER (R-Ariz.)

You've always been keen on the SST. What do you think of it after seeing the Russian TU-144 version crash at the Paris air show?—A. K., Green Bay, Wis.

- It was with great regret that I learned of the crash. I still think it was a fine aircraft. Both the Concorde and the TU-144 SST's flew during the show. The Concorde has greatly reduced its noise level and the 144 has not. Their maneuverability at low level and within the confines of the airport were, frankly, amazing.

FOR MONTE MARKHAM, star of the new "Perry Mason" series

Do you look forward to playing Perry Mason—in the wake of Raymond Burr's great portrayal?—P. T., Upland, Calif.

- Sure—what makes Perry different is that he solves crimes without punching anyone in the mouth, or drawing a gun. And his courtroom examination scenes are always intriguing, and absolutely legally accurate. Erle Stanley Gardner, who created Perry, was a lawyer, and his Mason books are still used in law schools as examples of how to conduct a cross-examination. But the way I'll play Perry will be different from the way Raymond Burr did, simply because Burr and Markham are different people.

The 9 Basic Winchester Positions. Try one on.

Point Blank.

Winner Takes All.

Surprise Attack.

Two to Tango.

Surefire.

The Nitty-Gritty.

Trust Me.

The Bold Advance.

Next?

How you wear your Winchester has become the neatest new way to send messages since body language. And the message is coming through loud and clear. Winchester's slim, sexy shape says you know what pleasure's all about. And the gleam in your eye says Winchester's taste delivers. Mild. Light. With a filtered smoothness and a come-hither aroma that tempts women to say, "I'll try anything once." And come back for more. So Winchester's not a cigarette. Not just another little cigar. It's a whole 'nother smoke. And how you wear your Winchester has suddenly become a whole 'nother way to send smoke signals. Try the 9 above. Then invent 9 more.

Winchester. It's a whole 'nother smoke.

20 LITTLE CIGARS.

Back-to-School Fun!

Even the Three R's (Readin', 'Ritin', and 'Rithmetic) can be fun! Sharpen your wits on these brain-teasers, and you'll be in good shape when school starts!

THE MYSTERY LOOP

For a curious bit of fun, and a little of what mathematicians call topology, take a thin strip of paper, give it a half-twist and tape the two ends together. Do you know what you've done? You've taken a two-sided strip of paper and made it into a one-sided surface. It's not magic; it's called a Möbius strip.

But if you're not convinced that it has only one side, try coloring what you think is the outside bright orange—you've colored the whole thing bright orange, right?! Here's another neat trick: Cut down the center of the strip, all the way around. Will you now have two Möbius strips? No—what you'll have is one plain old ordinary double-sided loop of paper with twists in it. (That's because by cutting the single-sided, single-edged strip you've added a second edge—and a second side. Confusing, isn't it!)

How to Make a Möbius Strip:

Cut a strip of paper about two inches wide and about ten inches long.

Take one end of the strip and turn it over, so that the strip has a half-twist in it.

Join the ends of the twisted strip, so that it forms a loop.

Fasten the loop with pieces of tape on both sides.

Can you complete this triangle of numbers? If you get stuck, this should help you continue the pattern: The border is all 1s. Each number inside the border equals the sum of the two numbers nearest to it in the row above.

Answers: 5 10 10 5 6 15 20 15 6

HANDSHAKING PUZZLE

Pretend you are in a room with three other people. They don't know each other. You don't know any of them. You all decide to introduce yourselves to each other. Everyone shakes hands with everyone else. How many handshakes will there be? (Don't peek at the diagram.)

Answer: It will take six handshakes to have everybody introduced to everybody else. The diagram below proves it. Each line like this (↔) equals a handshake. Here's what happens: A starts it off and shakes hands with B, C and D. B then shakes hands only with C and D (he's already shaken hands with A). C shakes hands only with D (he's already shaken hands with A and B). And by D's turn, he's already shaken hands with everybody! With everybody!

Summer's over. Back to the Bics.

In TALL WRITING, this reads READING & WRITING. You can do TALL WRITING too: Just make all your letters very tall & very skinny & very close together. For letters that have horizontal lines in them—A, E, F, G, etc.—make the horizontal line very thick. The taller, skinnier & closer together your letters, the harder they are to read. To make TALL WRITING easy to read, put the page flat on a table and peer at the letters with your eyes almost at the table's edge.

Invisible Ink

For not just hard but impossible-to-read writing, fill your pen with invisible ink (lemon juice makes good invisible ink) and write your secret message on a piece of paper. Let it dry. To make the invisible visible, heat the paper over a light bulb. (If you don't have a fillable pen, a small paintbrush works fine.)

How would you read this: ghoti.

If you read gh the same as the gh in laugh, o the same as o in women, ti the same as ti in nation, then how would you read it?

ANSWER: fish

(These instructions might look funny to you right now, but hold them up to a mirror and they'll look perfectly fine. It is kind of fun, though, to figure out the words without looking in a mirror.)

Animals in a Sentence

There's the name of an animal in each of the sentences below. Write a sentence about the animal.

Hold mirror here.

1. Dear, oh dear, whatever shall we do, Gertie? (See the animal? It's a dog: do, Gertie?)
2. Gee, shelling nuts sure can be messy.
3. I would say that the door key is a most common key.
4. Do you think that butter and ba-

- loney on toast cold be a very good sandwich?
5. Sometimes what things appear to be aren't what they really are.
6. Jill I once was friendly with, but Jack I hardly knew.
7. There are days when I don't feel like doing arithmetic at all.

ANSWERS: 1. lion 2. nut 3. monkey 4. beaver 5. bear 6. lion 7. cat

The Duke 'Copters in for a Chat- And Talks Tough About the Movies

By Arthur Lewis

Author of "The Day They Shook the Plum Tree," "Hex," "Carnival," "Lament for the Molly Maguires," and currently, "It Was Fun While It Lasted."

How do you get to a star like John Wayne? I don't know if the following method will work all the time, but it did for me. I telephoned his office, which occupies a couple of modestly furnished rooms in a small building on the nearly deserted Paramount lot where the Duke runs his own production company, Batjac. I asked his secretary if it would be possible to set up a future date with the boss. Her answer was, "Ask him yourself."

"Come on in tomorrow morning," the Duke answered. "Nine o'clock, if that's not too early for you. I haven't a thing to do till noon."

At nine I was there. At three minutes past the hour his secretary handed me a cup of coffee and, shaking her head dolefully, said she couldn't understand what had happened to Mr. Wayne, who was always on time, and hoped I wasn't offended. Five minutes later I heard somebody pounding up the steps, taking at least two at a time, and in strode the Duke, out of breath and full of apologies.

"I'm sorry," he said. "If there's anything I hate it's guys who think they're big shots and keep other people waiting to prove it. But this morning the whirlybird had some rough going coming in here from the farm. [He didn't say my whirlybird or my farm.] We hit a 30-mile wind."

As we talked, Wayne walked around the room. While occasionally he gropes for the right word, his voice is strong and clear and I had no trouble hearing what he had to say about Hollywood, its future and his own. On one of his walks around the room he paused for a few seconds to glance out a window that overlooks the empty Paramount lot.

"It's just a shame," he said. "What's happened to all the major studios? There's nobody around here anymore who knows how to tend store. They're all in trouble. They keep bringing in people who don't know a damned thing about the industry. Maybe they know how to sell ginger ale, but they don't know how to make moving pictures."

"They come out here and put their dough in the majors. They figure they can pick up cheap and sell at a big profit. I have no objections to real estate operators, but don't send them, or oil company executives either, to run a business they don't know a damned thing about."

"The stupid jerks have a hard time making their minds up about anything, and when they finally do, they haven't got the guts to stick to their decisions. Fellows like Jack Warner or L. B. Mayer, and even Harry Cohn whom I didn't like but who did know his business, made plenty of mistakes. But they made plenty of successful pictures, too, and when they decided on something, that was it.

"This business requires integrity, and it's not here today. There's no dedication anymore. No wonder everybody says Hollywood is dead. I'm inclined to agree. Let's talk about budgets for a couple of minutes. We had some mighty big ones in those days, and we had plenty of small ones, too. But whatever they were, we stuck pretty close to what was allotted in shooting time and cash and did the best we could. There weren't many so-called runaway budgets in those days. You think Jack Warner or Adolph Zukor and the others would permit spending twice and sometimes five times as much as they were told to spend? Hell, no! Somebody'd get his head chopped off if he did. But today!" He whistled.

"Do you know what movie really knocked Hollywood on its tail? Believe it or not, it was 'The Sound of Music,' and do you know why I say this even though the picture grossed a hundred million bucks or so?"

I shook my head.

"Because the majors thought they'd discovered the formula for success. All they had to do was spend money; the more they spent, the more they'd make. It was as simple as that. The hell it was! Everybody started to make pictures with multimillion-dollar budgets like 'Paint Your Wagon,' and you know what happened to most of them. They didn't nearly bring in production costs, let alone profits."

"Let me tell you something else they did, which is almost unbelievable. They found a real star in Julie Andrews, and she could have had a long successful career ahead of her. She created a wonderfully sympathetic, simple role, a lovable girl everybody liked and proved it by shelling out their dough at the box office. Julie was a marvelous contrast to the characters they'd been doing out here in those X-rated films."

"So how do they handle Miss Julie Andrews and her future?"

"Why, they put her into an expensive picture, 'Star,' tried to make her into a sexy, sophisticated dame, which, believe me, she isn't, and disappointed the millions of fans who came to see her as they remembered her in 'Sound.' So 'Star' became a costly failure, not only for Julie and the studio that made it, but for the whole damned industry."

The Duke 'Copters In for a Chat

The Duke continued.

"You know something? I've been in all types of movies—not all Westerns, believe me—but I try to be an essentially decent person in every one. I've never played a cruel, harsh character and I never will. Once, a while back, I was contemplating doing a different kind of film with a different kind of hero. Fortunately I talked it over first with John Ford. You can tell how long ago that was when I tell you the example John gave me.

"'Duke,' he said, 'take a look over at Harry Carey and watch him work. Stand like he does, if you can, and play your roles so that people can look upon you as a friend.' And that's what I think I've always done."

"They keep bringing in people who don't know a thing about the industry. Maybe they know how to sell ginger ale, but they don't know how to make moving pictures."

I'd been waiting, not eagerly but expectantly, for the patriotic pitch I'd been told was inevitable. It came, albeit in abbreviated form.

"This is a great country," the Duke said, "with great traditions and great folklore. I just hope nobody's going to mess us up." He paused to look at a large autographed picture of Vice President Agnew hanging on the wall. "If there were more guys around like that one, it'll never happen. He's got the guts to stand up and speak out. As far as this new generation of 'Americans' is concerned, I'm damned glad their courage doesn't equal their rhetoric."

He sighed. "Well, that's the way it is around here now—little guts and little vision. There's still plenty of talent around, though, if you know where to look for it and it doesn't get misdirected. Ever see Paul Newman?"

I said I had.

"Now there's an actor who's got it if he'd stop hurting himself playing those anti-hero roles. The man has real talent, and you know what I'd do if I were as young as Newman? I'd form my own television producing company and get ready for pay-TV. Because that's what's coming soon, sooner than most of us think, and that's what's going to save the industry, even though it's all over for Hollywood itself.

"What we have now on TV is controlled by Madison Avenue, but I don't think they'll have the same hold on pay-TV. They can't without their 15 or 20 percent collected from the commercials. I see pay-TV in the not-so-distant future and this, I think, is how it will work as far as those who make it are concerned.

"At the moment, we know our feature films will show in theaters for from one to a couple of years and then, after quite a while, they go on the air. But pay-TV is going to work differently. We'll do the feature films, all right, but we'll pull them out of the theaters in three to six months, hold them for another three months, then show them on pay-TV. And it won't be the tiny screens we show them on now. See that over there?"

He pointed to a highly decorative wall screen that I judged was about three by five feet in size.

"That's what's coming, you mark my words, and it'll be the death blow of dirty X-rated pictures, which have just about run their cycle anyway. What you're looking at is a family-size screen and it will show family-type movies." He grinned. "I just hope I'm around long enough to act in them."

I hope you are, too, Duke. I'll ride the plains with you anytime. You name it.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Arthur Lewis is a native of Pennsylvania who, when he hasn't been reporting and writing plays and books, has been going to movies all of his life. His latest book, "It Was Fun While It Lasted," chronicles the great days of Hollywood through the eyes of the "survivors" who helped make movies the delight they were in the thirties and forties. Mr. Lewis writes:

"I used to wonder whatever happened to all those beautiful movie queens I once loved so passionately.

I had been almost as concerned over the fate of their handsome costars.

"Now I know! For months I stalked my quarry through the nearly abandoned MGM, Fox, Paramount and Warner lots, through Hollywood's hills and canyons, and into the 'Country House,' movie-land's deceptive title for its elegant 'Old Folks Home.'

"I'm proud to report that a not-inconsiderable number of Hollywood's royal families are alive, well, and what's more, they're working."

Who Says a Good Cake Has to be Frosted?

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen bakes a cake in a Bundt pan, the round-tube cake pan with the scalloped effect. "If your family's like mine," says Marilyn, "it's hard to sell them on cake that doesn't have rich frosting. But here's a recipe that worked with my gang."

DELICIOUS BUNDT CAKE

- ½ cup butter or margarine (1 stick)
- ½ cup shortening
- 2 cups sugar
- 4 eggs, room temperature
- 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
- 1 teaspoon lemon extract
- ½ teaspoon almond extract
- 3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- 1 cup milk, room temperature
- Confectioners' sugar, optional

1. Grease a 3-qt. Bundt pan or 10-inch tube pan. Preheat oven to 325°F.*
2. In large bowl with electric mixer at high speed, beat butter and shortening together. Add sugar gradually, beating until fluffy.
3. Beat in eggs one at a time; scrape sides of bowl frequently. Beat in flavorings.
4. Sift flour with baking powder. Add in thirds to creamed mixture alternately with milk, beating at low speed, beginning and ending with flour.
5. Pour batter into prepared pan. Bake for 1 hour and 10 minutes, or until cake tester poked in center comes out clean. Cool in pan 10 minutes, invert onto cake rack and cool completely.
6. Sift confectioners' sugar over surface, if desired.

Makes 1 large cake

*Set oven at 300°F. if using a Teflon-lined pan.

WHIPPED-CREAM APRICOT SAUCE

- 8 pitted unpeeled apricots, quartered
- 2 tablespoons pineapple juice
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1 cup heavy cream, whipped

1. Place apricot quarters and pineapple juice in electric blender container. Blend covered 30-60 seconds until smooth (makes about 1¼ cups puree).
2. Add sugar to puree, blend.
3. Fold puree into whipped heavy cream, until just blended. Refrigerate covered, until ready to serve.

4. Serve as a sauce with plain cake. Makes 3 cups

FIX-AHEAD ROLLS

- 1 pkg. (17½ ozs.) assorted dinner rolls
- ¼ lb. butter or margarine, softened

1. Slice rolls in half. Spread bottom half of roll with 1 teaspoon butter, cover with top of roll.

2. Replace rolls in plastic bag, seal with twister, freeze.
3. Before serving, allow rolls to thaw at room temperature for 1½ hours.
4. Preheat oven to 375°F. Arrange rolls on cookie sheets. Heat in oven 5-7 minutes, or until heated through.
5. Place in baskets, serve hot. Makes 24 rolls

Our Delicious Bundt Cake, dusted with confectioners' sugar, is ready to serve by itself, or with ice cream or a simple sauce.

Softly Tailored

By Rosalyn Abrevaya

Dresses are moving closer to the body, with more fit and detailing than we've seen in a long while. Here is what we mean in an easy-to-sew classic silhouette, softly gathered into a yoke at the bodice, finished off with notched collar and draped sash. Make it in a slubbed silk or textured polyester.

Size 12 takes approximately 3 yards of 44-inch fabric. Standard body measurements for size 12 are: Bust 34, Waist 25½, Hips 36.

Things About Women Even Don't Know!

By John E. Gibson

True or False: As they grow older, wives become less skilled than their husbands at solving problems.
(See number 5)

It isn't only men who have difficulty understanding women. Even women often have difficulty understanding women! In this True-or-False quiz we take a look at the sex without which there wouldn't be any wives or sweet-hearts or—come to think of it—any men around either!

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. If a woman takes a seat directly facing you in a waiting room or other public place, it's an indication that she's attracted to you and would like to know you better.
2. It's more dangerous for a woman to drive a car when she's had one drink too many than it is for a man.
3. Being in a crowded room tends to bring out the best in women, the worst in men.
4. Women have a greater fear of dying than men do.
5. As they grow older, wives become less skilled than their husbands at solving problems.

ANSWERS

1. False. Studies sponsored by the National Science Foundation have demonstrated that when a woman is attracted to someone in this situation, she is likely—if conditions permit—to seat herself beside the person rather than facing him. With men, it was found, it tends to be the other way around. If they encounter someone they would like to know better, they prefer to sit facing them.
2. True. In studies at Arizona State University psychologists tested the reaction time of men and women subjects who had consumed various amounts of alcohol. Liquor impaired the reaction-time performance of females to a significantly greater extent than males.

3. True. In a recent psychological study, men's and women's reactions to being in a room filled with people was carefully studied. There were marked sex differences. Men tended to respond negatively, and under some conditions became "suspicious and combative." But when women were crowded together in a room, the investigation showed that they reacted positively and became friendlier and more at ease with each other.

4. True—according to the findings of a psychological study at Stockton State College, which evaluated the attitudes of men and women subjects ranging in age from 17 to 50 years. Women, it was found, had a significantly greater fear of dying than men did. However, a previous study has shown that "compared with women, men thought of their own death more, pictured themselves as dead or dying more often, and were more inclined to entertain thoughts about being killed in an accident." The findings showed, however, that men had a less negative emotional reaction to death and dying.

5. False—according to studies of married couples ranging in age from 41 to 76, sponsored by the National Institutes of Mental Health. Psychologists tested each individual on increasingly difficult problem situations. Findings: "When sex differences were analyzed, it was found that men in their forties obtained higher scores than women in the same decade. In the fifties men were more efficient than women on the simpler problems, but as problem difficulty increased, the advantage of men over women disappeared. In the sixties, there was little difference in the performance of the men and the women."

The Great Silver Rush: Collecting It Has Become Everybody's Game

"By early 1966, the U.S., long the largest user of silver coinage, had produced its last silver coins, and the reality of Gresham's law—bad money will drive good money out of circulation—was operating."

By Clifford Mishler

Clifford Mishler is editor of "Numismatic News," the authoritative weekly newspaper for collectors.

The urge to collect things has taken the country by storm. Hordes of Americans, young and old, nervous about inflation and the weakening of the dollar, are rushing out to buy everything from gold jewelry to oil paintings to Persian rugs, in the hope of realizing the kind of appreciation that will keep them ahead of inflation. Many of them, say the experts, may succeed, and many others may get burned.

As a numismatist (coin collector), I've always felt that the wise collector will demand two things from an item: first, that it be aesthetically desirable; and second, that it have an intrinsic value to hedge against changes in the public's artistic taste. This suggests to me that "silver collectibles" may turn out to be one of the best hedges against inflation.

Many silver items do run the risk of depreciation, although they have at least some intrinsic value. The silver collector's gains are based on the "collecting value" of the items he buys—that is, on whether or not they become valuable because of their desirability and availability to collectors. But the value of the silver content hedges against the total losses that can be suffered by collectors of other items, which may require a greater expertise of the collector.

The gold and silver fans can point to some interesting facts: All-silver coins, tied in bags, and having a face value of $1,000, recently were selling for as much as $2,000 on the silver exchanges. And sellers are getting up to $210 for the famous U.S. "double eagle" gold piece, whose face value is only $20.

The new silver rush all started, really, on November 28, 1961. That's when the U.S. government removed the price ceiling on the world's largest concentrated stockpile of silver. Silver bullion, which had been held at 92.5 cents per ounce, began inching its way upward. When, on September 9, 1963, it had reached $1.29, the government found itself on the brink of disaster. For all of a sudden silver dollars possessed a bullion value equal to their face value—and the public started hoarding them. If the price rose as little as nine cents higher, dimes, quarters, and half-dollars would be subject to the same phenomenon, and catastrophe would follow.

A drastic change in the nation's coinage was in the offing. A new law enacted in mid-1965 authorized the abandonment of silver in favor of a cupronickel composition for our circulating coins. By early 1966, the U.S., long the largest user of silver for coinage, had produced its last silver coins, and the reality of Gresham's law—bad money will drive good money out of circulation—was operating.

Once silver was no longer used for money, people began to look at it in a new light. The public had developed a strong attachment to the metal. In 1964, an organization called the National Commemorative Society was launched. The NCS provided a new collecting concept: a limited subscription series of monthly silver-dollar-size medals commemorating historic subjects.

Today, people are collecting silver medals, ingots and bars, collector plates and, yes, even coins, such as the special Eisenhower silver dollars, which are produced by the U.S. Mint and sold to the public at a handsome profit to the government.

Is silver a sound investment? In the long run, the answer seems to be yes—as witness the fact that silver dollars, which ten years ago were worth just $1, are now worth a minimum of $3.50—or $7 for an uncirculated example. Dimes, quarters and halves, which were common in circulation just seven years ago, are worth at least double face value today.

Modern silver collector items possess the same merit. They provide the average individual with his only logical means of obtaining a quantity of precious metal as a hedge against inflation. Silver bullion isn't popular, since the individual purchasing it has to commit himself for 10,000

Maybe you'll smoke them for the same reason I do.

There's been a lot of words in the papers about smoking.

Kind of reminds me of that old line— 'everything I like is either illegal, immoral, or fattening.'

Now I won't say that I wasn't hassled by what I read.

But, I just didn't want to give up smoking. I guess I enjoy it too much. But it sure was enough to get me thinking.

So I tried one of those low 'tar' menthols. It was like sucking a straw of hot air.

Then I noticed that a lot of guys I knew smoked Vantage Menthol. Its special filter didn't make Vantage the lowest 'tar' and nicotine menthol. Just the lowest they enjoyed.

So I tried it, and liked it. And discovered something else I liked, too. The tobacco taste comes through the menthol.

Now I can feel I'm still smoking a cigarette. Not a piece of menthol candy.

If you like Vantage Menthol as much as I do, you could wind up writing their next ad.

The Great Silver Rush

"One way to measure the . . . merits of a collector's item is by its availability. It must be available enough to be collectible, yet scarce enough to be desirable."

ounces—and that's a lot of silver! And gold, that other popular precious metal, cannot be held legally by U.S. citizens (except in the form of coins, which are now priced out of reach for most).

One way to measure the investment merits of a collector's item is by its availability. It must be available enough to be collectible, yet scarce enough to be desirable. Here again, the silver collector items currently being marketed generally come off well. Most are offered as limited-issue programs that are rigidly adhered to and that allow an individual to purchase only one example or set. This assures that there will be wide dispersal, but it eliminates the possibility that a hoard might suddenly appear on the market to depress prices.

Does this mean silver collecting will make you a millionaire? No. Silver collecting is not a get-rich-quick scheme. Most individuals buy these plates and medals more with an eye to their heirloom value than to quick profits. But there are instances of collectors realizing bonanzas. The Franklin Mint 1970 Christmas ingot, for example, which was issued at $12, is now being resold for as much as $185. Prestige Creations' 1972 Thanksgiving bar containing one ounce of silver, which originally sold for $4.50, is now trading at about $62.

What about craftsmanship? Is it really high quality?

Experts agree it is. Take the silver Christmas plate created in 1970 from designs prepared by Norman Rockwell. Having the design created by such a famous artist has assured that the plate would not only have monetary value, but would have added value from an artistic standpoint.

Yes, there are pitfalls. For one thing, it is important that an item be properly conceived if it is to be popular on the resale market. Here rests one of the potential traps for the unwary individual. He has to have some sensitivity as to whether the item is likely to be sought by future buyers. The most popular subjects for individual medal issues and series are nationally recognized events and personages, (the assassination of John F. Kennedy, completion of the transcontinental railroad, etc.).

Sometimes there are other factors besides the subject involved. For example, a series of silver medals depicting birds created by Gilroy Roberts, the famous designer of the Kennedy half-dollar, has proved very popular. The first group—of five medals sold for $90 in 1970. They are now selling for more than $200.

Silver collector items can best be summed up this way: They provide a convenient means for obtaining an item of some intrinsic value, which, because of its compact size and relative indestructibility, can be easily deposited for safekeeping. Whatever the explanation, the appeal has been strong enough to command the interest of not only the coin-collecting fraternity, and John and Jane Doe, but also such famous people as Paul Newman, Mickey Rooney, The Carpenters, Rudy Vallee, John Gavin, singer Wayne Newton, Sen. Mark Hatfield of Oregon, and civil rights leader Charles Evers.

In my view, an interest commanding such a broad appeal is not likely to be a flash in the pan. The perceptive and circumspect collector may, in many cases, turn this opportunity into a good investment—in addition to gaining a pastime that can accord him hours of enjoyment.

The biggest silver coin in the world.

It's the 1973 Panama 20 Balboas. The largest and heaviest silver coin in circulation anywhere in the world. It actually contains more than a quarter-pound of solid sterling silver. Size: 61mm (2.4"). Weight: 2000 grains. It's legal tender in the Republic of Panama, with an official exchange value of 20 U.S. Dollars. Minted for the Republic of Panama by The Franklin Mint, the world's largest private mint. Brilliant uncirculated specimens of the 1973 Panama 20-Balboas are available at $25.00 each. But the mintage is limited to the number of coins authorized by the government of Panama. So orders arriving after the limit is reached will have to be declined and returned.

Cybill Shepherd
and
Norman Mailer

Cybill and Norman: Cybill Shepherd, who's had a meteoric rise from model to movie star in two Peter Bogdanovich films, "The Last Picture Show" and "Heartbreak Kid," is not just another pretty face. She's a voracious reader—counting Norman Mailer as one of her literary idols (she even admits to having dreams about him). Recently, she met Mailer at lunch. Did actress and author set up a powerful chain reaction toward each other? As Cybill tells it, "I was so excited at the prospect of meeting him. Then he stuck out his hand and gave me a limp handshake. The lunch sort of went downhill from then on. The force of his personality just doesn't match his enormous writing talent. He does have the sexiest blue eyes," muses the actress, "but I think one's heroes are better left unmet." If you want to see Cybill, she'll be featured on CBS-TV's "Model of the Year" special this Saturday, August 25, presiding as the last winner of that award, which launched her career.

TARA AND MARSDEN ELDER Love me, love my cat

Could it have been a case of "You scratch my back and I'll scratch yours" that made Tara the kitten and Marsden Elder the bull fast friends? On the farm in Scotland they both call home, no one knows for sure, but the tiny kitten and the enormous bull are unlikely but steady companions. Don't try horning in on this friendship or you'll get a rough and ready bull's eye glare from Marsden—and that's no bull.

Does Women's Lib have enemies?

Doubtless, and one stalwart foe is a publication called "The Men's Section," published (no kidding) in Mann's Choice, Pa. In it, Dorothy Evslin writes: "The sexual role-playing the Lib ladies sneer at is a built-in response to our organic differences. Men with their testosterone concentrations are more suited to an impersonal business world; women are structured for the production and care of children. These are different ways of creating. . . . The family is our last great natural resource. Once we pollute that with our anger and our greed, no environmental protection agency will save us."

"Heroin is so simple to grow, so compact in its growth, so easy to handle and transport, that arrests of American distributors, when they do occur, have been totally ineffectual in cutting down the heroin market supply, even when large amounts of heroin have been seized. The accessibility to the foreign sources of heroin is so great, Ford Foundation investigators report, that the Mafia and other major distributors have upwards of a ten-year supply of heroin on hand as insurance against one of their sources being eliminated." From "The American Heroin Empire," by Richard Kunnes, M.D. (Dodd, Mead $5.95).

BEDSIDE MANNERS

I lift no voice, I raise no banner
To praise my doctor's bedside manner.
It's not that it is bad at all,
It's just that he won't come on call.
But though I carry on and moan
He mostly just prescribes by phone.
And so, though he may be a whiz,
I don't know what his manner is.
His bedside manner, more or less,
Is very like my own, I guess.
That is, he yawns, turns off the light,
Lies down, and hopes to sleep all night.

Trade in rough,
dry, hot taste...

...for smooth,
refreshing, extra cool taste.
Come up to KOOL.

I was in a hospital emergency room recently waiting for the results of the X rays for what turned out to be a badly sprained ankle. A boy of about ten was also waiting for the doctor to read his X rays and was very excited about the possibility of being able to use crutches. As we were waiting, he turned to me and asked, "What do you hope is wrong with you?" —Mrs. Jim Hall

LITTLE EMILY

"Now I know why your mother thought this was the perfect spot to camp!"

Ordinary hospital insurance won't help you here...

You need this basic kind of protection that keeps on covering you at home.

Mutual of Omaha's "Wide-Range" disability income insurance that provides up to $1,200.00 A MONTH both IN and OUT of the hospital

Disability Income Insurance—it's probably the first and most important insurance you should own.

This basic kind of health insurance covers you when you're sick or hurt and can't work...in or out of the hospital. The little known fact is, your chances of being laid up at home are seven times as great as for hospital confinement. That's what our records show, and that's why we offer really wide-range protection like this that covers you during and after hospital confinement—covers you even if you never go to the hospital—that provides benefits over and above any hospital-surgical-medical benefits you may receive.

As the breadwinner, you can select the amount you qualify for (from $100.00 to $1,200.00 a month...up to $40.00 a day) to help replace your paychecks when a covered sickness or accident keeps you from working. These monthly disability benefits are all yours to spend as you please for any purpose you choose...yours to use for every kind of bill.

THERE ARE SEVEN REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD CONSIDER THIS MUTUAL OF OMAHA PLAN:

1. You may qualify for up to $1,200.00 monthly income benefits (up to $40.00 a day) to spend as you see fit when you're sick or hurt and can't work!

2. These disability benefits are provided both IN and OUT of the hospital!

3. Your coverage becomes effective immediately for new sickness contracted or injury received after your policy is in force. Pre-existing conditions (old health problems) will not be covered for 12 months. This applies to such conditions shown on your application and not excluded from coverage.

4. Mental disorders are covered the same as any other sickness!

5. Your policy protects you as a passenger in any kind of aircraft—even a private plane!

6. Benefits are provided for disabilities incurred both on and off the job. They are available in addition to your Workmen's Compensation or Employer's Liability coverage!

7. You have this renewal agreement: no matter how often you may receive benefits, Mutual of Omaha guarantees to renew your policy as long as premiums are paid on time. Your premium can be changed only when changed for all policies of the same form and class in your state.

Please note that the amount of the benefit, the premium, and the deductible period vary with the plan you qualify for. And that benefits are not payable for losses caused by war or military service; narcotics, unless prescribed by a physician; childbirth, pregnancy, or resulting complications; disabilities that start after retirement or age 65, whichever comes first.

Get the full facts about this basic protection that can cover you both in and out of the hospital.
